

LE SCRIBE

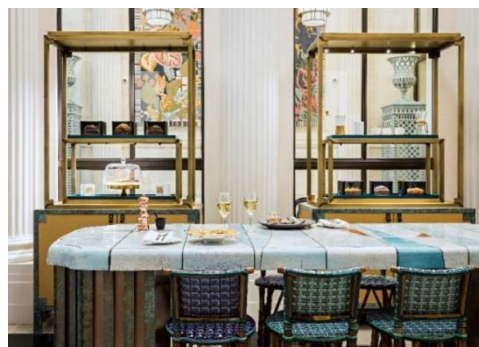

PARISIAN SINCE 1863

After a first phase of renovation, Le Scribe reveals its new design. Together with French designer Tristan Auer, Le Scribe is writing a new chapter in its history, combining faultless service with the intimacy of a Haussmann residence in the heart of the vibrant Paris.

Discover or rediscover this emblematic Parisian address

The main entrance design immerse you in the atmosphere of a 19th century winter garden to contrast with the vibrant ambiance of the Opera neighborhood. The lobby and new café welcome you in a universe of luxury travels in a very elegant and chic Parisian style.

Open in January 2019, the Café Scribe is your new ultra Parisian address.

Enjoy this hybrid place, simultaneously chic and casual, tradition and creativity mingle. Between a sophisticated shop and a Parisian counter, your habits are disrupted, your senses are heightened.

Have a warm drink from our coffee and tea experts, taste the delicious tapas of our Chef Sébastien Crison, and enjoy the spectacular cocktails of our mixologists.

With a design inspired by the large and luxurious Haussmannian apartments and the 19th century codes, it is with enthusiasm that we also present to you our new rooms, ad suites illustrating with elegance and style the French art of living.

In each of our rooms you will find all the references of the Parisian apartment, from the fireplace to the painted ceiling to the art books and the large dressing room. It is a pied-à-terre and a typically Parisian setting with the feeling to stay at home. The designer has opted for a delicate, elegant, refined design with references related to the history of the Scribe, using a contemporary and Parisian style.
